Foxes Should Bounce, Not Your Seat

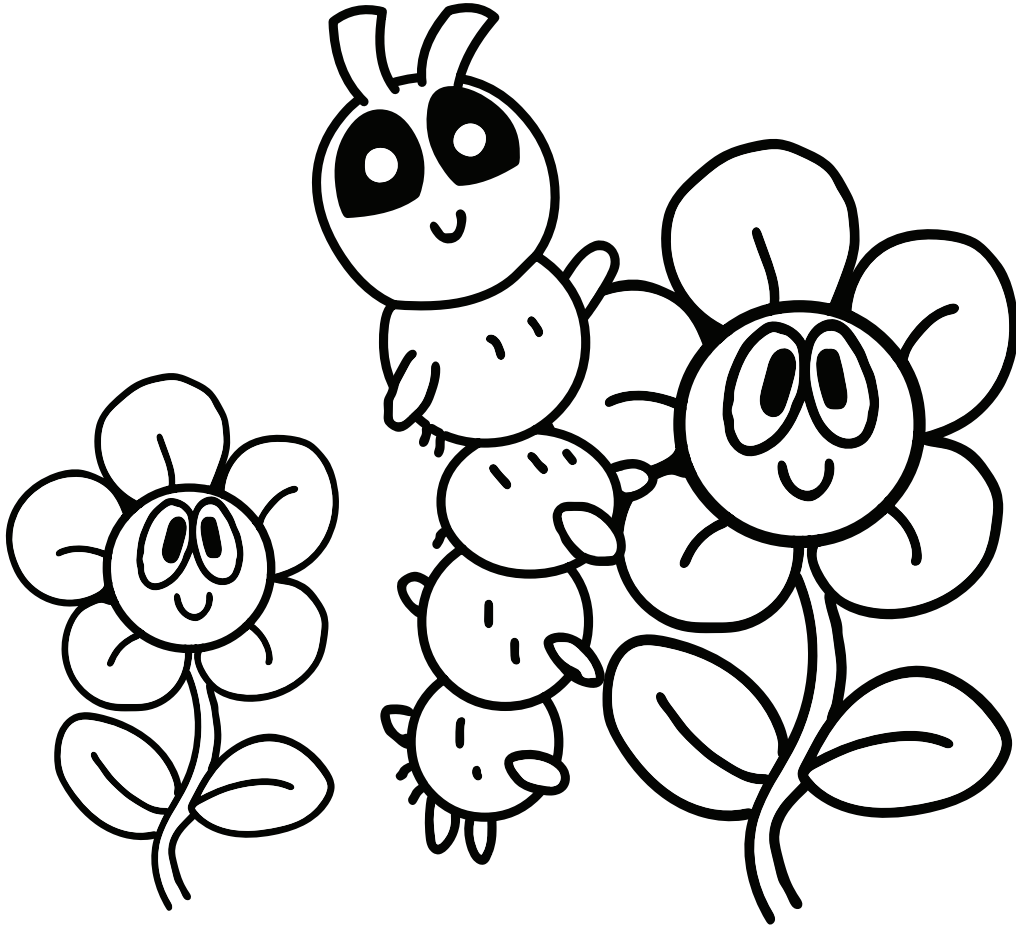

The fluffy-tailed foxes say, “Give your seat a firm shake.
If it moves less than our noses, it’s secure!”

Stay Secure As You Grow

Kids grow almost as fast as flowers do, so the careful caterpillar remembers to check those harness straps before every ride for the right fit.

The Pinch That Helps, Not Hurts

The safety spiders say, “Give it a tug until it’s snug!”
If parents can pinch your harness strap webbing together,
it’s not tight enough.

Get a Fintastic Fit

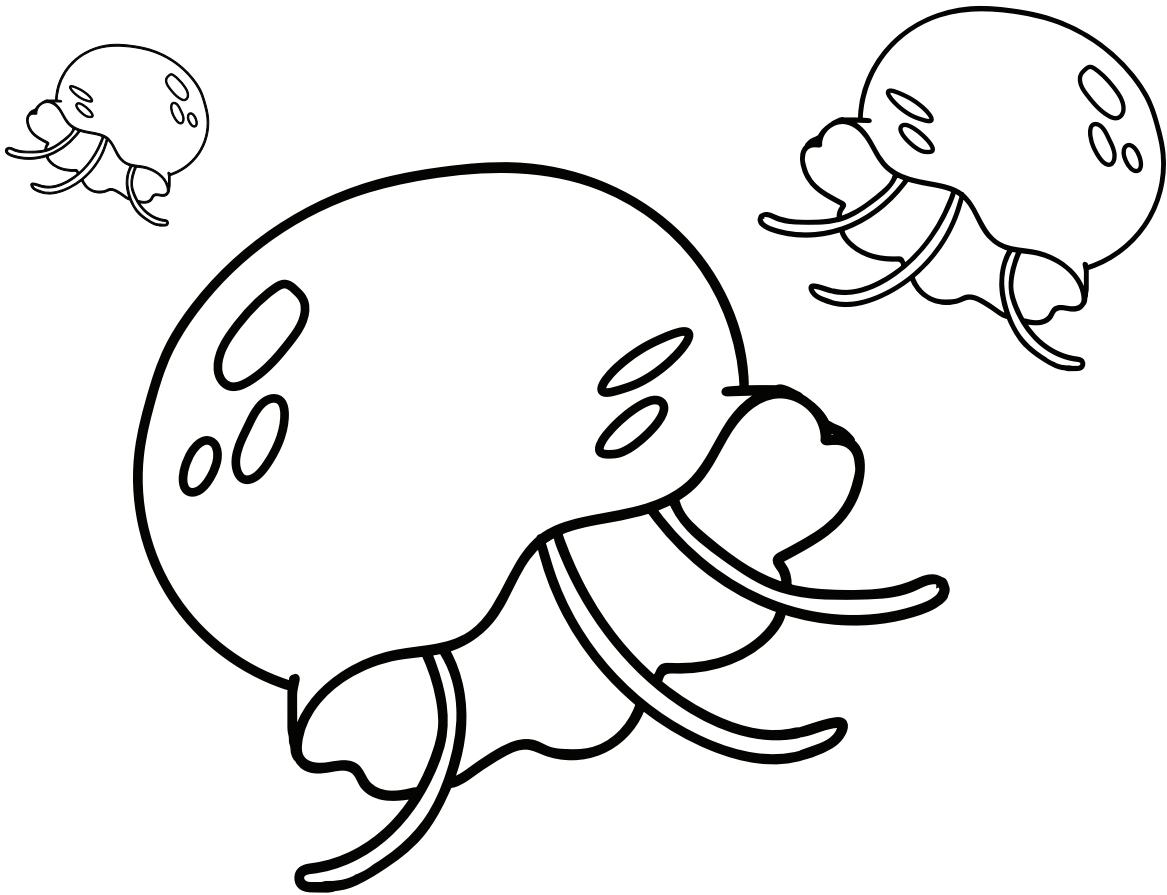

Harness straps can be slippery as a squid, so Nessy the sea monster says, “Raise the chest clip level with your armpits, so they stay put and you stay safe.”

5 Steps to Buckle Up Safely

1. Give the car seat a firm handshake at the belt path to make sure it moves less than one inch side to side or front to back.
2. Check that the harness straps are in proper position: Above the shoulders for forward-facing, at or below the shoulders for rear-facing.
3. Do the Pinch Test to check if the harness strap is secure. Tighten until you can't pinch the webbing.
4. Position the chest clip at arm pit level, not at the belly button or under the chin.
5. If your seat has a head support, position it so the bottom is level with the jawline.
